Company therefore agrees that in the event of any breach or threatened or intended breach of the terms in paragraphs I and II of this section by Company, in addition to any other remedies at law or equity available to KING AUTOMATION (which in no way are hereby limited), KING AUTOMATION shall be entitled to injunctions, both temporary and final, enjoining and restraining such breach or threatened or intended breach, and Company hereby consents to the issuance thereof by any court of competent jurisdiction without bond. In the event KING AUTOMATION determines that the Company's other contractor is not on schedule to complete any prerequisite work necessary for KING AUTOMATION to perform its benchmarked task, then KING AUTOMATION may inform the Company that the Company's other contractor(s) are behind schedule and that the benchmarked tasks should be adjusted to account for the delay of the Company's other contractors. In the event the Company demands that KING AUTOMATION comply with the original benchmarked tasks after notice has been given to Company by KING AUTOMATION, then the Company shall immediately issue a change order for the new work at 1.5 times the original price for services.
